

KENTUCKY RANSOM IS PAID

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

I BELIEVE the panic has passed. Business, of course, has been better for the last year—but I mean, I believe new conditions have arisen which will make for recovery no matter what the government does or does not do.

AAA Cotton Plan Supported Almost Unanimously Here

Only 2 Business Men Opposed, University Interviewer Finds

A MILLION DOLLARS

Hempstead County Business Aided by Government Payments

Voicing their approval of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's cotton adjustment program, because it has meant increased business, merchants and business men of Hope went on record Wednesday as staunch supporters of the plan and advocated its continuance for at least another year.

Representative business men, interviewed at random with two exceptions expressed approval for the program in a survey conducted Wednesday by J. V. Highfill, assistant agricultural editor, Extension Service of Arkansas College of Agriculture, Little Rock.

The fact was revealed in the course of interviews, that in spite of the drought, Hempstead county farmers, it is estimated, will receive approximately $730,000 for this year's crop, plus approximately $157,397 in rental and benefit payments, making a total of approximately $887,397.

Had it not been for the government's adjustment programs, many expressed the belief that cotton would be selling for much less, probably 5 cents, than the present price. Those interviewed hesitated to predict what the results would have been this year in face of one of the worst droughts on record, had it not been for the fact that the government not only assured farmers signing acreage reduction contracts a cash income, increased the price they received for the cotton they grew and then guaranteed those obtaining loans on cotton at least 12 cents per pound.

Program Worth While

"The cotton program certainly has had a good influence on business in general," R. G. McRae, president of the First National Bank said. He endorsed the program and favored continuation of the plan. "Business in general," he said, "is approaching what it was in 1929." Mr. McRae pointed out that his paper held by his bank would be collected and he also stated that deposits were much greater than they were a year ago.

Retail merchants have done a wonderful business this year, Mr. McRae declared. He expressed the opinion that it would be a disastrous move to abandon the program now that it has done so much good.

C. F. Rouman, assistant manager of Geo. W. Robinson & Co., said, "Business is as good as it can be under the circumstances." He explained that his company had enjoyed a 20 per cent increase in business over what it was a year ago. C. C. Lewis, general manager of the same store, stated that he favored the program and expressed himself by saying, "It is a good thing, and something that has improved business."

J. H. White, of White & Co., believes that the program has not helped improve conditions much and stated that the business upswing was due to come regardless of whether the government aided or not. However,

Hope Ready for Hot Springs Trojans

Hammons' Squad Drilled to Meet Visitors' Passes

Hot Springs Team and Coach Arrive in City at Noon Friday

BEAR STORY FALSE

Report That Some of Trojans Are Ineligible Is Quickly Spiked

Coach Foy Hammons will wheel out his most powerful artillery here Friday night against the Hot Springs Trojans with orders to "shoot the works."

The game promises to be fast and furious with the Bobcats fighting to avenge a 13-7 defeat suffered last season at the hands of the Trojans in Hot Springs.

The Trojans came to Hope fresh from last week's 52-7 "breather" over Jonesboro High School, a 25-0 win over Prescott and a 46-10 victory over Malvern High School.

The Bobcats, who ran themselves dizzy over Hamburg, 71-0 triumph over Camden 14 to 0, and then went down to defeat in a close tilt here with Fordyce, were pronounced ready Friday by Coach Hammons against "anything that Hot Springs has to offer."

The Bobcats have been drilled hard against the Trojan running attack and have spent much time in shaping a defense against the Trojan aerial circus, featuring Paul Longinotti, Hot Springs' 137-pound quarterback.

"We're not conceding the visitors a thing. The game is going to be hard fought, and the result a close score," the Bobcat coach said.

Hot Springs' Coach Perry who arrived with 36 players shortly before noon, came these words:

"We know the Bobcats are good. I couldn't tell you to save my soul how the game is going to come out. Either team can win. It's going to be a tough battle, and it wouldn't surprise me a bit if Hammons men beat us by three or four touchdowns."

"I think the Bobcats have a better team than Fordyce, and the game last week against Hope was more a slip-up than anything else."

"A few of my men are bruised up, but the team as a whole is in fair condition for the game, with no serious injuries to any of the regulars," the Trojan coach said.

Asked as to rumors concerning the alleged ineligibility of two players, Coach Perry said: "If any of my men have been declared ineligible, it's news to me. The Trojans are making the New Capitol Hotel their headquarters while in the city."

A victory for Hope would add much prestige to the team, and would considerably hamper if not definitely eliminate the Trojans from the state championship running.

The two teams are about equal in weight, both capable of taking to the air in search of victory or either may depend on a hard running attack. It will be the fourth game of the season for each school.

Expert Record Crowd

With fair weather in prospect and indications of a large delegation of fans and supporters from Hot Springs, attendance for the battle promises to set a new record.

The kickoff is set for 8 p. m.

Officials will be: Referee—Edwin Cole, U. of A. Umpire—Bill Brazier.

High-Priced Meat Regarded Certain

American Livestock Herds at Lowest Ebb in 35 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Insufficient feed supplies to maintain livestock on normal ration, the lowest ebb in livestock numbers in 35 years, and higher prices for poorer quality meat were predicted Thursday by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

In a report to Chester C. Davis, farm administrator, the bureau declared that feed grain supplies would be 3,000,000 tons short of this winter's requirements and hay supplies inadequate by 1,600,000 tons.

Because of the drought, the bureau said, "the decrease in livestock numbers, as a result of greatly reduced hog production and increased slaughter of cattle and sheep this year, together with the shortage of feed crops necessary for fattening livestock, will result in a very marked reduction in both numbers and weights of animals for slaughter during most of 1935."

Found Rendezvous With Death

TOP—King Alexander's visit to France was the climax of Foreign Minister Barthou's cherished plan for the peace of Europe. In this radiophone, the late French statesman (left) is shown as he welcomed the king at Marseilles just a few minutes before both were slain.

BOTTOM—The death of the assassin of King Alexander in the melee following the shooting at Marseilles, created a new mystery when it was discovered that the passport issued to "Peter Kalem" found on his body was forged. Above is an NEA radiophone of the man who fired the fatal shots, now unidentified.

Assassins Hired by Slav Fanatics

2 Admit Yugo-Slav Society Sent Them to France on "Mission"

Copyright Associated Press

PARIS, France.—(AP)—The Surete Nationale announced Friday that two terrorist suspects, Yaroslav Novak and Ivan Rajlich, had confessed they were sent to France on a secret mission by the Yugo-Slav organization "Pavlovich" but did not know what their mission was to be.

The Surete officials said the men admitted shooting a room in Paris with Petrus Kalemen, assassin of King Alexander of Yugo-Slavia and Louis Barthou, Foreign Minister of France.

By the Associated Press

Little King Peter the Second of Yugo-Slavia sped across Europe toward Belgrade Friday accompanied by his mother, Queen Marie, and the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, his grandmother.

The train carried three cars of French detectives and police with every precaution being taken to insure the safety of the royal party.

Meanwhile, two assassination-plot suspects held by French police were reported to have confessed.

Yugo-Slav authorities denied reports of wide-spread anti-Italian rioting. Storms at sea delayed the destroyer which is bearing the body of King Alexander, and the ship is not scheduled to arrive at the king's homeland until Sunday.

Italy Friday kept a close watch on Yugo-Slav developments.

Miss Welthia Goode, president of the district, presided over the business session, with Miss Flora Cotton, Hempstead county health nurse, in charge of the program.

The first speaker on the program was Dr. Smith. He addressed the group on "What the Doctor Expects of the Nurse." Mrs. Percy Webb of Camden, spoke on "What the Patient Expects of the Nurse."

She was followed by Miss Bara Belmer, state president, who addressed the meeting on problems to be taken up at the next meeting of the state association which will be held at Texarkana October 30 and 31.

Miss Goode was nominated as a delegate to the state convention. Sixteen representatives of the district attended the meeting Thursday.

ASSURE KIDNAPERS Are Promised "No Hindrance" in Keeping Pledge to Family

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Ransom for Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll has been paid and the family are awaiting instructions from the kidnapers as to her safe delivery, it was announced Friday by Berry V. Stoll, the husband, after he and detectives dashed through the southern section of Kentucky in apparent pursuit of a car said to have contained a man and a woman, the latter with a bandaged head.

The statement was made by an attorney representing the family, at a conference with newspaper men.

"We have carefully followed instructions, met all ransom requirements, and are awaiting fulfillment of promises," the attorney said.

"The parties may act freely without fear of hindrance," the statement in behalf of Stoll said.

The kidnapers had asked $50,000 ransom.

Pool Certificates Much in Demand

They May Be Turned in for Trade—Price Determined Later

The national pool needs surplus certificates says Frank J. Fox, assistant in cotton adjustment and producers are urged to bring any such certificates to the county agent's office, at Hope city hall. The value of certificates assigned to the national pool is uncertain since the proceeds from sales from the pool will be made proportionately.

The unsold certificates will be returned and may be used another year provided the Bankhead act is in effect.

Further information on these certificate values, as given in a letter from Director Warburton, is as follows:

"There seems to be an impression among cotton farmers in certain sections that they will be able to sell all surplus certificates which they hold under the Bankhead Act at the rate of $20 per bale."

"The recent crop estimate indicates that certain states will produce 1,639,474 bales of cotton less than their allotments under the Bankhead Act and that certain other states will produce approximately 431,233 bales more than their allotments under the Bankhead Act. From this, you can clearly see that there will not be a market for more than approximately 400,000 bales of surplus certificates."

"The Agricultural Adjustment Administration desires to be perfectly frank with the holders of certificates with reference to this matter and is very anxious to avoid having certificate holders disappointed later because of their inability to dispose of all their surplus certificates at the specified price of $20 per bale."

DES MOINES, Ia.—(AP)—Less than 24 hours after the government named him as one of the slayers in the quintuple Kansas City Union station massacre, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Southwestern desperado, shot his way clear from a party of Iowa officers late Thursday only to set a host of federal, state and local authorities on his new trail.

The hunt pressed on into Minnesota after Agent A. G. Haight of the Iowa Bureau of Investigation and Deputy Sheriff Will Owens of Howard county exchanged shots with the outlaw and two companions near McIntire.

The trio fled north across the Iowa border in a black sedan, Haight said. The two officers flushed Floyd from a farm house hideout near the Minnesota border. Autumn

With what a glory comes and goes the year;
The buds of spring, those beautiful
Of sunny skies and cloudless times, enjoy
Life's newness, and earth's garniture spread out;
And when the silver habit of the clouds
Comes down upon the autumn sun, and with
A sober gladness the old year takes up

His bright inheritance of golden fruits,
A pomp and pageant fill the splendid scene.
There is a beautiful spirit breathing
now
Its mellow richness on the clustered trees,
And from a breaker full of richest dies,
Pouring new glory on the autumn
woods,
And dipping in warm light the pillared clouds.
The gentle wind, a sweet and passionate wooer,
Kisses the blushing leaf, and stirs up life
Within the solemn woods of silver beech, and maple yellow-leaved,
Where Autumn, like a faint old man, sits
Down by the wayside a-weary.

Caution Urged in Cotton Transfers

Tax-Exemption Certificates Can Be Traded
Only Within County

Cotton producers are again urged to be careful about the transfer of tax-exemption certificates under the regulations, says Frank J. Hill, assistant in cotton adjustment.

They can be transferred only from producer to producer within the county. The person offering for sale must have gained all cotton on the farm covered by such certificates and make a statement that the certificates offered for sale are surplus and are not needed to procure bale tags for cotton grown by or for himself during the crop year 1934. These regulations must be strictly carried out.

The following telegram has been received by the county agent from E. D. White, chairman of the state allotment board:

The following wire has been received from Mr. Cobb: "Please advise all county officials in charge cotton program and otherwise give wide publicity as possible to following. Regulations especially sections 101 to 106 provide only ways in which cotton tax exemption certificates may be lawfully transferred or assigned. Any transfer or assignment not in accordance with regulations is illegal and in such case both the person disposing of certificate and party acquiring it are subject to penalty in section 14 E of Act for violation of regulations for each certificate involved and such certificate is subject to cancellation. No one is entitled to possession of certificates except cotton producers and transfer is legal only as above stated to enable growers to use certificates in ginning and marketing this year's crop.—E. D. White, Chairman."

AAA COTTON PLAN

Mr. White favors a long time adjustment program based on the theory that farmers not be allowed to plant more than 25 per cent of any one field to any crops they may be growing, based on their 10-year average acreage and production. He reported business about normal.

"We would all be broke, had we not had the cotton adjustment program, S. H. Bryant, manager of Bryant & Co., declared when questioned regarding his attitude on the program. Mr. Bryant declared the program a fine piece of legislation and thinks it should be continued for another year. He said, "I am for the present administration 100 per cent and you can't make it too strong." Mr. Bryant reported business much better than 1932, and stated that this year and last also were much better, with respect to increased business than the low year of 1932.

Auto Sales Improve

"There is no way of telling what would have happened, if the government had not stepped into the picture with a cotton control program and stabilized cotton prices," Thomas F. McLarty, manager of Hope Auto Co., said. "Our car sales have not reached what they were in 1932, but business is much better with us than it was in 1932," he said. He asserted that business had been improved as a result of the program and voiced the opinion that the program should be continued.

C. Barentine, of the Bryant Dry Store is of the opinion that the AAA programs, and the cotton adjustment program in particular, has brought about improved business conditions in general. He expressed a desire to see the program go forward and accomplish still more than has already been achieved.

K. G. McRae, of the McRae hardware store believes that farmers know whether the program has been beneficial or not, however, he pointed out that his business picked-up considerably following the plow-up of 1933.

"Personally, I am for the program, for I believe it has helped to increase business," he said.

It would be a disastrous move to abolish the AAA program, according to A. C. Monte, seed merchant declared. He explained that it would be foolish not to go on with the program, because business men are reaping good profits as a result of increased purchasing power, which has been placed in the hands of farmers.

"I am sure," Mr. Monte said, "that the Triple-A program, with its benefit payments and increased prices, has improved business, as everyone has profited directly or indirectly because of its accomplishment. Something had to be done to save the cotton grower from the time the government announced its intentions of controlling cotton production, else there might have been a revolution, he added.

Mr. Monte believes that the consensus of opinion of a majority to be for retention of the Bankhead cotton control act, provided some features of the act are modified to minimize the hardships that some have suffered. He explained that the majority who are dissatisfied with the program, are complaining because of irregularities caused by features of the law, that if modified, would meet with more universal approval.

Opposed to Program

W. A. Foote, field representative of the Hope Building Material company, expressed opposition to the program, and believes that the government should "take off the lid" and let supply and demand be the controlling factors in price of cotton. Mr. Foote maintained that business conditions were better when large crops of cotton were the rule rather than the exception and asserted that farmers are not better off now than they were before controlled production was in effect.

W. Davis, manager of the Hope Building Material company reported that business was about normal and that the cotton adjustment program had not caused any appreciable gain in the lumber business.

The Barlow Hotel reported a substantial increase in business during August and September over the same months a year ago.

Numerous other business men who were interviewed, but who refused to be quoted, voiced favorable support for the program and produced figures to substantiate their belief that the Triple-A program has exerted a wholesome effect on business conditions.

General belief among those interviewed was that with modifications, the Bankhead act would be more generally accepted by a majority of farmers than is true at present.

While the purpose of the survey conducted Wednesday, was to determine the sentiment of business men in particular toward the 3-A programs, it was impossible to call on business men all day and not run into a farmer. Mr. Higball stated after completing the survey. However, he explained that some dozen or more farmers were questioned as to their views and all but one were enthusiastic in their praise for the cotton program, including the Bankhead act.

Many farmers stated that even with the Bankhead act as it now stands they would rather have it in its present form as to go back to producing cotton under unrestricted basis, for 4 and 5 cents per pound, which they explained would surely have been the results, had it not been for the cotton acreage reduction program and the Bankhead cotton control act.

Rotarians Inspect Indian Collection

Lemley Collection of Relics Is Entirely
Arkansan

Hope Rotary club, following its Friday noon luncheon at Hotel Barlow, was taken through the Lemley brothers' Indian relic museum, Edgewood street, by Harry J. Lemley.

Mr. Lemley explained that the collection, one of the finest private groups in America, had been gathered entirely in Arkansas. Comprising thousands of arrow-heads, stone axes, articles of pottery and household implements, the collection is arranged according to river valleys, each river tribe having distinctive craftsmanship. The collection ranges from the White and Arkansas rivers, in the eastern part of the state, across to the Ouachita and Red river valleys, the last-named comprising the area around Hope.

The earliest specimens run back to 3,500 years ago, and there is a noticeable improvement in craft skill between those earliest arrow-heads and axes, and the ones of only a few centuries ago.

The Rotary club was entertained on a similar visit to the museum four years ago, by the Lemley brothers.

Dr. R. E. Schirmer, of Chicago, was a Rotary guest Friday.

A news report in Thursday's Star stating that Joe Thomason had been struck and killed by lightning and that his estate was suing for damages against Hope Basket factory, was very much exaggerated.

Mr. Thomason was injured—not killed. He is alive and walking around—and not in the cemetery.

The mistake was made by The Star in a telephone conversation with the Washington courthouse concerning circuit court proceedings.

A.&P. Reviews 75 Years in Groceries

October Is Diamond Anniversary of National Store System

A housewives' revolution would be caused by a return to the good old days, declares the A.&P. Kitchen, reviewing those "good old days" on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, celebrated during the month of October. Throwing the spotlight of interest on the progress in feeding a nation during the last 75 years, the A.&P. Kitchen found there to be some of the difficulties our grandmothers had to face in feeding their families.

If Grandmother wanted to be sure of serving Grandfather a steaming hot cup of freshly roasted coffee for breakfast in the 1850's and 1860's, she had to roast it and grind it herself. That's what everyone had to do then. For breakfast cereals, all Grandmother had to do was to buy a basket of wheat, and cook a quart or so on the back of the stove for two days until it was soft enough to chew.

In those days, away from the seacoast the only seafood obtainable was salted. It came in two forms, dried salt fish and pickled salt fish. The dried salt fish were just dandy if you had enough time to soak them for a day, and if you had enough time to change the water often.

Soap was not something that Grandmother could just order half a dozen bars of at the local store. She saved her wood ashes and grease drippings for months and rendered them into a soft jelly-like mass then known as soap.

Flavoring extracts did not come in neat bottles in the 1860's. Grandmother had to buy a vanilla bean, or carefully save her orange and lemon peel for months and soak them in brandy, and in the short time of a month she had vanilla extract or orange or lemon extract.

Hominy was another favorite of the late 1800's. For hominy a bottle of strong lye was kept on the pantry shelf. This bottle of lye, plus an iron kettle full of water, plus some shelled corn, plus a day's soaking, plus repeated washings, plus cooking, produced hominy. Simple, wasn't it?

Meat, however, was different. If Grandmother bought fresh meat she got it fresh. Very fresh. It was not aged in a refrigerator as good as meat is now. It was alive in the morning and Grandmother bought it that day, or the next, because there were mighty few refrigerators even after the packers in Chicago learned how to ship refrigerated cars of meat in the 70's. The only ice machines they had were ponds and a prayer for cold weather; and that didn't work so well in the South. Though it is

Farmall Showboat Here Monday

Pictured above is the Farmall Showboat which will cruise into the Port of Hope promptly at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon to dock in front of the South Arkansas Implement Company store. In addition to being a traveling display of farm machinery, the Showboat is rapidly cruising its way to a non-stop tractor endurance record.

Although Hope has long been known as a railway terminal, several miles of broad and fertile acres between the city limits and Red River have always robbed it of the distinction of being a port of call for the packets which followed the channel of the Red upstream back in the '80s.

However, when the Farmall Showboat cruises into the city Monday afternoon, all that will be changed and the Hempstead county metropolis will become, for at least one day, the Port of Hope.

Laiting along smoothly at a speed of 10 knots per hour, pennants flying and band music throbbing, the Showboat will steam into the city promptly at 1 o'clock to dock in front of the South Arkansas Implement Company, across the street from the offices of the Hope Star. Heralded by the deep-throated sobbing of a river packet whistle and the mellow tolling of a ship's bell and shrilled by the smoke from its tall twin stacks, the strangest vessel ever to cast anchor in the county will parade through the business area before throwing a landing line and dropping the gangplank for the afternoon.

The Showboat comes to Hope as a goodwill ship for the entertainment and education of the farmers of the Hope trade territory and carries a display of seasonal and modern farm machines on its decks. The craft is a replica of the boats which plied the river trade years ago and is so complete in detail that spectators can even hear "steam" escaping from the valves. It will be brought here under the sponsorship of the Central Arkansas Implement Dealers' Association, of which organization Ladd Miller, local McCormick-Deering dealer, is a charter member. During the boat's stay here, Captain Monroe Rooks of Little Rock will provide an interesting program through the loud speaker for farmers and their families.

In speaking of the Showboat, Mr. Miller cautioned a reporter not to expect too much of the vessel in cruising a water route. If it were run into removed that in 1871 an ice plant was built in New Orleans, from which ice was even imported into the North.

The great change in the food buying habits of the nation came in the 1890's. Cities were growing. The tempo of life quickened. Housewives no longer wanted to spend hours and even in some cases days preparing a single dish or a meal. In response to this demand changes in food selling habits appeared rapidly. Fully automatic can-making machinery first appeared in 1885. Thereafter canned foods became an important part of the grocery business. Breakfast cereals were invented that came ready to serve.

Oats for oatmeal first, then gradually the myriad wheat and corn cereals that one sees today. Rector's restaurant which opened in Chicago in the 1880's proved to a disbelieving world that oysters packed in ice could survive a trip to Chicago. Home soap-making disappeared overnight before a superior manufactured product. Every one of the 200-odd A.&P. stores began to carry extracts in response to demands of the customers.

By 1901 the changes progressed far enough for the Ladies' Home Journal to write, "In these days you can buy almost everything partly or wholly cooked." However, the development of ready-to-eat foods, that so excited the ladies of 1901 was hardly the beginning. Growth, since that time, of food preparing technique plus growth of well organized distribution systems not only made prepared foods available to everyone, but also fresh fruits and vegetables and good meats available the year round at low cost, and made the modern meal a matter of minutes not hours.

At Sea, at Home! If Warren Williams keeps on guests won't be able to discriminate between being at his home and on board ship. Warren has his den where he does most of his informal entertaining fixed up exactly like a ship's cabin—even to portholes instead of windows. And now he has fitted pictures of ships at sea into the portholes to add to the illusion.

Stars in Clusters Dropping in at the Brown Derby: Pola Negri lunching with Ernst Lubitsch... maybe she'll do a picture while she's here. . . . Anna May Wong with a friend. . . . Patsy Ruth Miller Colleen Moore and Bessie Love talking over old times. . . . Ann Southern with Roger Pryor. . . . Jimmy Cagney and his wife. . . . and in the next booth Lee Tracy reading part of a script to Isabel Jewel. . . . Leslie Fenton and Ann Dvorak pointing out celebrities to Ann's father.

What Country Wants Having returned only recently from a four-week tour of the country, Cecil B. DeMille feels himself quite qualified to speak on the subject of what the public wants in the way of screen entertainment.

"That question which has baffled producers for years really is the simplest thing in the world to answer," he says. "The old demand is for good pictures, regardless of type. It doesn't make a bit of difference whether a film is a comedy, backstage musical, an outdoor epic, or a costume picture. As long as it's good, it will do good business."

Now It's Tougher Fight Once he earned $25,000 for 45 minutes' work in a single evening. That was in 1929 when he fought Jimmy McLarnin. But today Joe Glick is glad to get $750 for 10 hours' work. That's what the former lightweight boxer has been receiving as an extra in "Lincoln Nights."

Still in Love Garry Cooper is insisting upon doing all his own riding and shooting in "Lives of a Dangan Lancer." But he moved from the company location to Malibu Lodge, about three miles distant, because he saw a rattlesnake near his tent. At least, that was his excuse.

Investigation proved, however, that his wife also is a new resident of Malibu. Guess the honeymoon isn't over yet.

Food Prices Show Drop Since April

Meat Makes Largest Decline From Peak of Last Spring

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The first drop since April in the cost of stocking the family larder was reported Friday by the Labor Department for the two weeks ended September 25.

The same amount of food that cost $1 at retail in 1913 cost $1.16 during those two weeks, compared with $1.07 a year ago and $1 two years ago. In September, 1929, the same amount cost $1.60.

Meats showed the greatest decline—1.6 per cent—of any of the food groups when compared with the previous two weeks. Dairy products also dropped. Cereals went up. The group including coffee, tea, sugar and the like dropped slightly.

When prices in individual cities were compared with those of two years ago, increases ranged from 8.3 per cent in Chicago to 25.5 per cent in Detroit.

Saratoga

The seniors under the direction of their sponsor, Mr. Peebles gave a chapel program Friday morning. The wits, Carroll Cannon and Joe Rosenbaum, gave a black face minstrel skit which was very interesting. The Bible was read by Marguerite Mobley and a talk, "The Value of the Quantity System," by Mr. Peebles concluded the program.

The juniors and seniors surprised Mr. and Mrs. Peebles with a shower Friday night. After the surprise, games were played and a regular party was had. Mr. and Mrs. Peebles received many nice and useful gifts.

An impromptu weiner roast was given on Monday night by the juniors and seniors. It was given in honor of the birthday of Louis and Louis Manning, and for Kelsie Holland who is visiting from Overton, Texas.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

Three Women in Town and Here's Prettiest HOLLYWOOD—It may not mean a great deal to be considered the most beautiful of the three women in your city—but it means enough in the life of Antoinette Lee, that she now is the possessor of a long-term contract with the Fox studio.

When this 21-year-old newcomer speaks of home she is referring to Cinecittas, Durango, Mexico, a small mining town boasting a population of 1 Americans, among whom she was one of the three women.

Naturally, the distinction of being the most beautiful of those three didn't mean a whole lot. But when her striking beauty continued to

Hope-Hot Springs Game Is Featured

Bobcats Furnish Trojans' First Real Opposition, Says A. P.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Every section of the state will have its "big game" this week-end as the high school football program brings together several sectional rivals. At least two of the contests have important bearing on the state high school football race.

Hot Springs' aerial circus will swing into action against the Hope Bobcats at Hope Friday in a tilt that promises to be a real test of the Trojans power, while the Fordyce Redbuds come here Friday night to determine whether Coach Quigley's Little Rock Tigers have the power to compete in the state race.

Hot Springs has won three rather easy victories thus far in the season, but the Bobcats, under the direction of Coach Foy Hammons, have shown enough power in previous games to assure the Trojans plenty of opposition.

The Redbuds bowed to Pine Bluff but have the strength to push the Trojans to the limit and have an outside chance to win.

Fort Smith meets Okmulgee, Okla., at Fort Smith Friday night in a game highly-rated in that section, while South Arkansas has two contests bringing together sectional rivals—Camden and Prescott and El Dorado and Malvern.

The Pine Bluff Zebras go to Jonesboro to oppose the Golden Hurricane Friday night with the Zebras heavy favorites to cop the contest.

The schedule Friday includes: Wade at Texarkana.

Wine Bluff at Jonesboro (night).

Hot Springs at Hope.

Fordyce at Little Rock (night).

Malvern at El Dorado (night).

Okmulgee, Okla., at Fort Smith (night).

Industrial Union Adopted by A. F. L.

Lewis, of Miners, Wins Crusade for One-Industry Organization

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(AP)—Organization of workers into single unions embracing whole industries, as distinguished from craft unions limited to particular trades, was decided upon Thursday by the American Federation of Labor.

In a move to "meet the demands of new industrial conditions," the federation instructed its executive council to issue charters for the creation of national and international unions in the automotive, cement, aluminum and other mass production industries.

The council also was ordered to inaugurate organization campaigns in the iron and steel industries.

The convention action was a triumph for John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, whose big organization is one of the few industrial unions now existing in the United States. Although the issue has been heralded as a controversial one that would produce sparks of conflict on the floor, not a negative voice was heard when the convention voted after a short discussion.

The federation also went on record in favor of pensions for the aged, for mothers of dependent children and for sickness and unemployment benefits.

It voted to continue a boycott against German goods because of the asserted oppression of German trade unionists and of the Jewish people "until the tyrannical governments of Germany and Italy are wiped out."

Negro pickets appeared at convention hall during the afternoon bearing placards such as "unions should be color blind" and "white labor must smash the color line for its own interest."

The picketing developed despite that the convention previously had adopted resolutions providing for investigation of alleged discrimination against negroes in union activity. Police stopped the negroes from selling papers outlining their grievances.

Lynwood Rowe Is Married, Detroit

Weds Childhood Sweetheart—Will Return for El Dorado Homecoming

DETROIT, Mich.—(AP)—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, 22-year-old pitching star of the Detroit Tigers, and his childhood sweetheart, Miss Edna Mae Skinner of El Dorado, Ark., were married in the Detroit-Leland hotel here Thursday night.

Only a few personal friends of the couple attended the ceremony, the Schoolboy and his sweetie having finally escaped the fans who promised to follow them all the way to the altar.

Ervin (Pete) Fox, the Tigers right fielder who was Rowe's roommate during the baseball season, and Mrs. Fox were the attendants. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. L. Calkins of the Preston Methodist church.

Earlier in the day when Rowe dodged through crowds of admirers at the county building to get his marriage license, the same pitcher refused to say when he would be married.

The Rowes will start South soon to make their home in El Dorado, where the Schoolboy won his early fame as an all-around athlete. Arkansas is prepared to give him a welcome and Rowe may do some pitching in exhibition games.

Taxpayers Demand Vote on Salaries

Action at West Memphis—and Injunction for Hot Springs

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark.—(AP)—Crittenden county taxpayers were asked Thursday night by advocates of a proposed county salary bill to pledge continued support in an effort to have the proposal placed on the ballot for the general election of November 6.

Following addresses at a mass meeting, sponsored by the Crittenden County Taxpayers Association, pledge cards were passed through the audience.

R. B. Snowden Jr., president of the association and one of the speakers, estimated that 1,000 cards would be signed.

Mr. Snowden referred to the action of County Judge J. C. Johnson and Chief County Clerk A. B. Carter in refusing to pass upon the sufficiency of the petition for the salary bill. This bill was signed by 470 qualified Crittenden voters, representing more than one-fifth of all those who voted in the general election two years ago.

Their failure to act forced the taxpayers to seek a writ of mandamus in Circuit Court requiring them to either hold the petition sufficient or insufficient. Otherwise, and in the absence of any action by these functionaries, it would have been impossible to place the bill on the ballot.

Salary Bill Wins

LITTLE ROCK—Chief Justice C. E. Johnson of the Arkansas Supreme Court Thursday signed a temporary writ of prohibition restraining Chancellor Sam W. Garrett in Garland Chancery Court from interfering with the placing of a county salary measure on the ballot in Garland county for the November 6 general election. The temporary writ stays action pending a decision by the supreme court.

Frank Shea and others were the petitioners.

The petition said that the act was duly initiated and was certified by the county judge and county clerk. County officials and others filed suit in chancery court to restrain the election commissioners from placing the proposed act on the ballot and a temporary restraining order was granted. Hearing for a permanent injunction has been set for next week but this was said to be too late to permit adjudication of the case before the ballots must be printed.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

Quince Is Versatile
Excellent Dessert Fruit When Stewed
BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Staff Service Writer

Why on earth do you suppose that more people don't realize that one of the finest dishes on earth is made of fresh quinces stewed until they are a lovely amber color in what water clings to them (too much spoils their own distinctive flavor), one stick of cinnamon and a clove or two? You don't need even cream with these, for the syrup is thick and rich.

Canned quinces make not only good winter desserts but will work into the salad course if you put them up with—

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Chilled cider, cornmeal, cream, toasted codfish, cornmeal, muffins, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Scrambled eggs, mushrooms, baked sweet potatoes, peach and grape salad, milk, tea.
DINNER: Baked tongue, parsley potatoes, creamed cauliflower, endive with bacon dressing, baking powder biscuits with quince honey, milk, coffee.

out sugar. And for supper on a cold winter night, nothing is more delicious than hot biscuits, the golden butter melting into their snowy hearts, shattered over with quince honey.

To can quinces for salad, wash the fruit. Dip in boiling water. Plunge at once into cold water and drain. Pare, cut in halves and remove the ribs. Pack in sterilized jars, adjust the caps, pour over medium syrup and half seal. Process for 40 minutes in hot water bath or 10 minutes at 15 pounds pressure in steam pressure cooker.

Quince Chips
Six pounds quinces, 10 cups granulated sugar, 1-3 pound crystallized ginger, 3 lemons.

Pare and cut quinces in thin slices, removing seeds and as much of the connecting tissue as possible. Mince ginger. Cover quince with water and lemon, sugar and ginger and cook until mixture is thick. Pour into jelly glasses and cover with paraffine.

Quince Marmalade
This marmalade is delicious added to mince meat, about 4 tablespoons to the pie.

Three pounds quinces, 1-2 pounds apples, 2 cups sweet cider, sugar.

Pare, quarter and core quinces. Put into a baking dish with cider, cover and bake in a slow oven until fruit is tender. Add water as necessary. The cider will thicken and be absorbed and the mixture must be kept moist so as to prevent scorching until tender. When tender measure and add one cup of sugar to each cup of fruit. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and jelly-like. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine.

Quince Honey
Pare and core quinces. Grate or put through fine knife of food chopper. To 3 cups of chopped quince add one cup of water and cook until tender. Slowly sift in 1 cups granulated sugar and cook 15 or 20 minutes. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses or jars and seal.

Army Still Main Defense for War

Infantry the Real Backbone, Not Aviation, Says Harbord

ABOARD S. S. QUEEN OF BERMUDA.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, former army chief of staff, urged Thursday night against developing aircraft on a "pipe dream" program and declared "all wars have been won and all wars will continue to be won in the dirt."

"Decisive warfare is fundamentally a ground war," he said, "and it was before the spectacular development of weapons such as the catapult, firearms, the submarine, the tank and aircraft."

"That fundamental should be the solid basis for every consideration of military problems. It is that every war must be won—finally—by sending men into enemy territory—and holding it."

"No great nation will ever be subdued so long as it has fighting men with their feet on solid earth ready and able to repulse invading force. No air armada has yet flown whose personnel could not be run in by the municipal police if it landed in hostile territory."

General Harbord favored the program for doubling the army's fighting aircraft and added there seemed little doubt that Congress would pass it.

"Our country needs an air corps of been hampered in the development been hampered in the development of one of the responsible claims of overzealous military aviation enthusiasts as much as by the rejoinders of the anti-aviation factions."

Registration Cards in Mails Friday

Birth-Registration Program to Reach All Citizens by Monday

LITTLE ROCK—Baby census cards for the first Arkansas "Register Your Baby" campaign are leaving the Bureau of the Census at Washington Friday and should be in the hands of all families in the state by Monday morning, according to Dr. W. B. Grayson, Dr. Grayson is director of the campaign which is being conducted jointly by the Federal Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health and the Arkansas Emergency Relief Administration.

It has been estimated that 40,000 of the cards on file for each baby in Arkansas under one year old will be returned to the Director of the Census in Washington, who will in turn send them to Little Rock, where they will be checked by ERA clerks against the state records. At least a month will be required for the checking, and in case it is found that some child in the state is not properly registered with the Bureau of Vital Statistics, steps will be taken immediately to secure that registration.

All babies less than one year old should be reported on the cards immediately. All that the parents have to do is to fill in the blanks, and drop the card in the nearest mailbox without postage. In order to be positive that proper registration has been received, parents should fill in the card, even though they are reasonably sure that their child has already been registered. Such cooperation on the part of the parents, which will require only a minute of assistance to the child in later life, because there are numerous times when a certified copy of a birth certificate is essential.
